Walking is the key to fitness for people of all ages. Learnt almost involuntarily at an early age, it can become an effective insurance against some major health problems.

People generally have the wrong idea that vigorous exercise is the only way to keep fit. What they do not realise is that walking, which requires less effort, can be beneficial as any exercise.

There is also no reason why walking should be considered a less active exercise for the younger generation. Regular walks are more beneficial than going to Health Clubs which deprives one of the fresh air necessary to clear the lungs.
